IDA Profile

Mission Statement

The mission of the International Door Association is to be the leading trade association representing the door and access system industry by providing advocacy, education, and collaboration to advance the industry with increased professionalism, and vibrant volunteer leadership and staff.

Brief History

The International Door Association was created with the merger in 1996 of the Far Western Garage Door Association and the Door & Operator Dealers Association. Its colorful history reaches back to March 1967, and is reflective of the numerous changes realized by the door systems industry.

The most common IDA denominator is people, both those who have led the association, and those who have supported it in many other ways. It is because of many courageous volunteer visionaries that the predecessor associations (FWGDA and DODA) were organized. It was that same vision that ultimately brought the two groups together, creating a meaningful and valuable international organization.

Today, IDA has close to 1,000 members, over 3,000 IDAExpo+ attendees bi-annually, and more than 15,000 IDA Magazine subscribers.

IDAExpo+ Overview

Introduction

- The IDAExpo+ is the biennial industry education and show floor, featuring the latest products, technology, and information, while affording attendees networking opportunities unavailable anywhere else. Produced by the International Door Association (IDA), the 4-day event draws thousands of manufacturer, supplier and dealer attendees from all over the world. Now, in its third decade, the event includes two days of educational seminars on timely subject matters, and an additional two days of exhibits. It is the only event held in the U.S. where attendees can learn how to maximize their opportunities, overcome challenges, and find new products and suppliers, all in one place. All of this, plus social activities, and entertainment, make IDAExpo+ an educational and enjoyable setting. The IDAExpo+ is a can't miss event!

Attendees Expected

- The overhead door and access systems industry is composed of manufacturers and intermediaries that make, distribute, install and service products designed to enclose and operate access to building spaces. Products are applicable to residential, commercial, institutional, and industrial buildings. However, not all products made and installed are vehicle related, as some are for building interiors for fire and smoke confinement or grilles for storefront closures. Products include sectional, rolling curtain, high-speed and other door designs; some with decorative facades to enhance building appearance. Door operators (openers) are also part of industry output. The majority of such operators control opening, closing, and securing vehicle spaces.
- Average 3,000 attendees

Exhibitor Information

- Exhibitors include manufacturers of garage doors, openers, safety products for garage doors, hardware, specialty doors, and many other products and services utilized by garage door dealers
- Average 130+ exhibitors
